

Why Switch to TimeSolvPay? The Advantages of TimeSolvPay Over Traditional Payment Methods

Traditional payment methods—e.g., check or bank transfers—have long been seen as reliable, no-fail strategies for law firms to get paid. Most law firms want to do more than get paid, though: they want to grow.

To grow, your firm needs payment solutions that:

- Meet client expectations
- Support efficient operations
- Address the numerous challenges of the legal industry's landscape

Ideally, the solution you choose will incorporate more than just payment processing and will account for challenges specific to the legal industry. That's where TimeSolvPay can come in. TimeSolvPay is an innovative solution that ensures accurate, secure payments without the hassles of traditional methods. Let's explore how.

Six challenges traditional payment methods create for law firms

There are several payment options that your practice likely accepts, including checks, eChecks or ACH, bank transfers, cash, and in-person payments. While these options accomplish the job, there are more than a few issues that can come up. Among them include:

1. Lack of security: While non-digital transactions might seem to be more secure, they pose their own security risks, including potential theft or loss of cash, or sensitive payment information being exposed or mishandled during the transaction process. Additionally, checks can be intercepted or altered, compromising security.

2. Manual processes increase the risk of human error: The problem with traditional payments doesn't begin and end with the payments themselves. Errors can occur during the payment process, data entry, account reconciliation, and more. Additionally, invoices and payments may cross in the mail, invoices may be lost, or cash payments stolen.
3. Slow funding timelines: Getting paid shouldn't be time-consuming, but if your client sends funds by ACH transaction, you likely won't see it immediately. The same goes for checks. And even if your client renders a cash payment, you still have to take the time (and effort) to deposit funds in the bank.
4. Lack of flexibility for clients: Clients today expect convenience and flexibility when it comes to making payments. Traditional methods often fall short in this regard, as they require clients to physically mail checks or visit the bank for transfers. This inconvenience can lead to delays in payment and dissatisfaction among clients.
5. Record-keeping complications: Tracking payments from various traditional methods can complicate record-keeping and bookkeeping processes, especially when it comes to compliance-sensitive trust accounting. With payments arriving in different formats and at different times, reconciling accounts can become a tedious and error-prone task.
6. Environmental impact: Finally, traditional payment methods often involve significant use of paper for checks, invoices, and receipts. This not only contributes to environmental waste but also poses a challenge for firms aiming to adopt more sustainable and eco-friendly practices.
