Eagan, MN September 14, 2016 – TimeSolv, a provider of web-based software for legal billing and timekeeping announced today an innovative process to migrate all historical data from Sage Timeslips to TimeSolv.

“Many firms are ready to adopt cloud-based software to run their practice,” explained TimeSolv CEO Raza Hasan. “They’re aware of the advantages of cloud computing, including ease of use, 24/7 access from any location on any device, automatic updates that don’t require software downtime, not to mention the lower costs.”

However, many firms are obligated to use traditional client-server software such as Timeslips because of the difficulty of migrating old historical data to an online solution.

“Previously, most SaaS companies could only take a snapshot of historical data when a firm moved to their software,” says Hasan. “The hesitation with most firms is that means they lose all access to specific historical data like time entries, invoices, payments, etc.”

TimeSolv has now solved that problem by creating an industry-unique solution. TimeSolv is the only web-based time and billing software that can now migrate and convert all historical data from Timeslips.

“We feel this is a game-changer for the legal industry and firms that are ready to leave Timeslips,” states Hasan.

TimeSolv has already migrated old Timeslips data for several law firms, ranging in size from 3-14 attorneys.

“The initial thought in migrating our data from Timeslips was that it was going to be really overwhelming but TimeSolv walked me through and made what was a difficult task very simple,” said Tammy Walls at Wagonheim Law in Maryland.

Kimberly Porter at Dallas, Texas firm Key Harrington Porter expressed similar thoughts. “Migrating our 13 years of Timeslips data was one the major concerns of the partners. TimeSolv made it easy to convert because we developed a plan. So there was a process to the conversion that I felt was very efficient and was very thorough.”
